Dear Parishioner,

Today is Thirtieth Sunday of the Ordinary time.

This week the schools are entering a period of holidays.

Last Tuesday, speaking on the International meeting of the religious leaders, Pope Francis said the dream of all men and women of goodwill is for a world rid of every war. But how do we go about, he asked, achieving this dream? "No people, no social group, can single-handedly achieve peace, prosperity, security and happiness," he said, noting that the lesson learned from the coronavirus pandemic is "the awareness that we are a global community, all in the same boat, where one person's problems are the problems of all." "Once more we realized that no one is saved alone; we can only be saved together." (cf. Fratelli tutti, 32).

You all are in my prayers. Stay safe and stay blessed, keeping up the Covid regulations strictly in our daily life.

Fr Chacko

 Our new Facebook Group now has 117 members which is great, but is much lower than the original Facebook page which had over 300 likes and over 400 followers. In order to preserve the security of the group we will only admit people who answer a question about their connection to the Parish. If you have not yet joined the group please search for Holy Family Parish and apply to join the group. You can also invite your friends to join. We look forward to growing the group and developing its possibilities for sharing and communicating in a safe and private space.

Reflection: "You shall love the Lord your God.....you shall love your neighbour as yourself" (Mt 22:40).

Indeed a good Catholic is seen as a law abiding citizen in the city of God. Judaism in Our Lord's time suffered from legalism. The danger of legalism exists also in the Church. Our Lord reacts to legalism by putting all laws in its proper frame work. Christians should not see a law abiding life as a tool for obtaining Eternal Salvation. It is love that makes observance of laws compatible with human dignity. To Jesus both these commandments, drawn from Deuteronomy and Leviticus, cannot be thought of without the other. Without Love of neighbour Love of God remains a sterile figment of mind and without Love of God love of neighbour may end up in a vague humanitarianism, which usually does not last when faced with disappointments. Those two laws are the two faces of the same coin.

"Homosexual people have a right to be in a family. They are children of God and have a right to a family. Nobody should be thrown out or be made miserable over it. What we have to create is a civil union law. That way they are legally covered. I stood up for that."
Pope Francis

This week's Gospel follows close behind the Gospel read last Sunday. It is the last of three questions put to Jesus by Jewish religious leaders who are trying to trick him into saying something that might get him arrested. This reminds us that the context for today's reading is the mounting tension between Jesus and the religious leaders in Jerusalem.

The Herodians and the Pharisees asked the first question, which was about taxes. The Sadducees asked the second question, which was about the Resurrection (see Matthew 22:22-33). The third question, considered in today's Gospel, is asked by a Pharisee who asks Jesus about the greatest of the commandments.

The question requires Jesus to interpret the Law of Moses. The Mosaic Law consists of the Ten Commandments and many additional rules, numbering over six hundred. Adherence to the Mosaic Law, for a devout Jew, is an expression of faithfulness to God's covenant with Israel. The ranking of the Commandments was regularly debated among the teachers of the Law.

Jesus answers the Pharisees' question with a two-fold summary. Jesus says that all of the commandments can be summarized in two commandments: love God and love your neighbour. Both of these were central elements of the religious tradition Jesus learned from his Jewish community. Indeed these continue to be central aspects of contemporary Jewish religious understanding. Jesus' response to his questioners proposed an integral connection between these two aspects of the Jewish Law. Love of God finds its expression in our love for our neighbour.

Reflecting on Autumn with Sr Stella Kelly –LSU

Autumn has a special place in all of our hearts. There is so much to be seen and heard in this beautiful season. This is a time when the earth plants and sows and renews itself, in faith, in love and in hope. It is the season of colour. It is the season of letting go in faith, in letting grow in hope and letting be in love. The trees allow their leaves to change colour and to fall softly to the ground. It is a time of contemplation, of turning in and realising that what we aim to achieve will blossom in the early spring if we let the lord do the watering. Allowing His springs of living water to refresh our lives, our hearts and our very souls can only produce that rose in the spring that is surely the symbol of His love. Times are troubled and the earth is tired. The virus is a challenge but the Lord has a purpose and if we pray the prayer of Padre Pio “We must pray, hope and not to worry!”, then we will be safe in the loving hands of our saviour!”

Ecclesiastes 3:1-8

“There is a time for everything under the sun,
 A time for birth, for dying, for planting,
 A time for being unwell and a time for healing;
 There is a time for stripping down and a time for building up again;
 There is a time for tears, for laughter and for dancing;
 There is a time to throw away and a time to gather;
 There is a time to love and be loved;
 There is a time to be alone, to listen and to discern
 And a time for peace!”

This is our time to place our world in the Lord’s loving embrace and to give Him the freedom to lace our universe with his powerful and incredible healing love.

How are we using our special moments during at this time?

Autumn is a time of sowing and planting in the heart of nature. When creation wakes and puts out feelers towards the sun and all life is a glorious possibility, Lord, keep us in the spirit of amazement. Keep us believing when we cannot see and keep us always looking for your presence. We pray in the name of Jesus. Amen!

Blessing: May your day be filled with blessings, like the sun that lights the sky, and may you always have the courage to spread your wings and fly! Amen!

Newsletter editor required

Rachel Lapworth has been preparing the newsletter every week since July 2018 and has now decided that she would like to free up that time to pursue other things. She will continue to prepare the newsletter until the end of this year but we are looking for someone else or a team who will take over the role in the new year.

There is an editorial brief for the newsletter which reads:

“The Parish newsletter is intended to be a rich source of diverse material related to faith and spirituality in the modern world which is uniquely personal to the Parish. It is a means of evangelisation and is an opportunity to reach out to people on the “edges” and give them an insight into faith and spirituality and what it means to be a Christian. Its objectives are to stimulate thinking in the context of the Catholic faith, offer hope and inspiration and provide something which can be shared with others outside the Parish. In addition, it provides essential information about what is happening in the Parish and how to get involved. It is a way of leading people to Christ, just as Jesus asked us and is intended to be modern, forward thinking and relevant to young and old alike.”

If you are interested in the role you will need the following skills:

- a good command of English
- Strong computer skills, especially in Microsoft Publisher, the use of e-mail, converting documents to appropriate formats and the use of search engines
- Research skills
- Strong team working skills
- The ability to encourage contributions and to say no to contributions which do not fit the editorial brief or are inconsistent with directives within the Diocese or the Parish
- A reasonable understanding of issues relating to copyright

In addition you will need to be available for around three to four hours a week, particularly on a Thursday and Friday morning.

If you are interested in applying or would like further information please contact Madeleine Hughes in the office.
